Holiday Gift Guide: The 12 Days of Fishmas!

Skip that partridge in a pear tree: These gift ideas will bring joy to saltwater fishermen everywhere.

By Chris Woodward October 19, 2018

For the sake of fun, let's just pretend that Fishmas is an annual event in December when saltwater anglers' dreams come true. Imagine one awesome gift every day for 12 days in a row! Maybe these items magically appear, brought by the Great Tarpon, who pops out of the kitchen faucet and delivers fully wrapped presents to your tackle and gear room.

However, if a multi-day extravaganza is not in your budget (or your imagination) this year, consider any one of these gifts a fine option for the angler in your family.

Cuda Dual Pliers

On the fourth day of Fishmas, the Tarpon gave to me:

A pair of Cuda Dual Pliers: This 7 ½-inch set of pliers is made from aluminum alloy with a bonded oxide film for corrosion protection. The dual-cutting technology comprises titanium-bonded tungsten-carbide wire cutters and a mono/braid and fluorocarbon compound cutter. The pliers come with a nylon sheath and lanyard and cost $43.43.

...an Okuma Solterra, a Columbia hoodie and a Penn Battle II spinning reel.
